Joining the military in 1979 after the Blizzard of 78, I have always felt a call to serve our State and Country in a time of disaster. Having served in the military for almost four decades and have always supported the United States having a strong National Security Plan and military. I will seek to once again be appointed to the Armed Services Committee. I believe that we need to streamline our procurement process, eliminate duplication, and obsolete systems, to include modernizing weapons systems, building ships and aircraft.

I also believe as well as providing all necessary equipment and support for our men and women war-fighters so that they can do their jobs well and safely. When their tour of duty is over, if they need a job, I will help them find employment. If they need physical or mental health care, I will strive to ensure that they get every resource that they need to get healthy and live a long and productive life.

I want to work once again on suicide prevention within our military. One suicide is too much.
